Description

Ostroh. Castle Complex of Princes Ostrozki

The first written mention of Ostroh city dates back to 1100. The city was part of the Volodymyr-Volynsky Principality, and from 1199 became part of the Halytsko-Volynsky Principality. Now it is situated in the Rivne Region.

The Ostroh Press was the second oldest printing press in Ukraine, founded in 1578 by Ivan Fedorovych \(Fedorov\) with the financial backing of Prince Kostiantyn Vasyl Ostrozky at the prince's castle in Ostroh, Volhynia.

The castle of Ostroh is built on a low hill and occupies a small oval area of the territory. The eastern and southern part of the building overlooks a steep brae of about 20m. The remaining sides of the Castle are separated from the city by the deep ditches and ravines that add to the castle's safety and inaccessibility, as well as its defensive capability.

The Ostroh castle consists the three buildings from the XIV-XV centuries that include the Stone Tower that used to be living quarters, the Epiphany Cathedral and the New Tower. At the beginning of the 20th century the Castle structure was completed by an addition of the Bell Tower.
